BUSINESS MEN SURVEY OUTLOOK WITH HOOVER

GREEN PREDICTS NORMAL BUSINESS CONDITIONS SOON

HOOVER PLACED RESOURCES OF GOVERNMENT AT DIS- POSAL OF BUSINESS

CONFERENCES OF PRESIDENT HAVE STIRRED NATION- WIDE OPTIMISM

Washington, Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—President Hoover today called on the governors of all states asking them to canvass their state, county and municipal programs with a view to giving strength to the general industrial situation and absorbing unemployment during winter months.

This move dovetails with the far reaching program which President Hoover has developed this week for encouraging business to go forward with many billions in normal expansion programs while holding wages up to present levels.

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 23.—It is now for business to take hold of its bootstraps and pull hard for a bigger winter than last year.

Business men have surveyed the outlook with President Hoover in his series of conferences and have discovered billions of dollars' worth of business coming around the corner. Wage earners and small salaried men have been assured there will be no wage cuts in the nation's biggest industries. Henry Ford has even promised immediate increases to his thousands of employees.

President Hoover has placed the full resources of the government at the disposal of business. The federal reserve system is forcing down interest rates so that millions of waiting capital may be hired cheaply by industry. President Hoover's conferences have stirred nationwide optimism, the like of which has never before been seen after a major stock market break.

All that remains is for business to go out after orders, in the opinion of administration authorities.

Optimism was the key-note of a statement issued last night by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor. Green said all factors which make for a speedy industrial and economic recovery are present and evident.

"Within a few months," Green said, "industrial conditions will become normal, confidence and stability in industry and finance will be restored and labor, strong and aggressive, will be prepared to demand and secure higher wages and a greater degree of leisure."

The United States Chamber of Commerce has called a general business conference here for December 5 when the business world will take on its own shoulders the task of following through under the momentum mustered by President Hoover.

Additional favorable news has developed in the last twenty-four hours. Heads of the construction industry told the president a total of $2,200,000,000 will be spent by the federal government, states, counties and municipalities on road and street construction next year plus many more millions in public and private buildings.

Railroad heads meeting in Chicago telegraphed the president they hoped to buy more steel and other materials than last year when one and a quarter billion dollars was set aside for improvements. Rails totalling 2,500,000 tons are expected to be bought this year.

"This program," the White House said, "will assure larger employment in the railway equipment industry next year and a very substantial addition to the railway demands for steel."

The federal reserve board has approved a reduction of the rediscount rate to 4½ per cent for the Chicago federal reserve bank which will aid industry in the middle west in obtaining money at low rates for expansion activities.

President Hoover's law enforcement commission is investigating the effect of bad housing on crime and expects that it may lead to large building programs for cities with badly congested slum districts.

The department of commerce reports business activity as indicated by check payments was substantially greater for the week ending Nov. 16 than for the same week a year ago though there was some decline from recent high volume.

One of the big facts which the president hopes will be pounded in by business men themselves is the needless waste that occurs from winter building depression. An investigation made while he was secretary of commerce disclosed that in southern and Pacific states where winters are mild, builders often went into hibernation in the winter just as they did on the Canadian border.

President Hoover's experts were convinced that this was not only needless loss time in the warmer states but that much building can go forward in northern states in winter months. The president held no general conferences today. The last one scheduled is with agricultural leaders Monday morning. Utilities heads will meet with him at some undetermined date.

Wearry Fire Fighters Ask For More Troops to Help

Snow Fails to Deter Hoover and Reducing Squad at White House

Washington, Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—The first snow of the winter failed to deter President Hoover and his watch-the-waistline squad from taking their daily work-out at 7 a. m. today.

Despite the blanket of snow on the south grounds court, 11 middle aged officials, wearing the usual light jerseys, spent 30 minutes at their exercise.

The only variation in their program was coffee in the White House rather than in the sheltered California garden on the south grounds, where it is usually served.

TIGER OF FRANCE SLOWLY SINKING, AS HEART FAILS

PHYSICIANS SAY HE CANNOT LIVE OVER TWENTY- FOUR HOURS

SURPRISED HIS DOCTORS AND ATTENDANTS BY LIVING THROUGH NIGHT

Paris, Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—The father of victory lay dying today while France waited sorrowfully for his inevitable end of his great war leader.

George Clemenceau, his life nearly spent, was in an unbroken stupor, poisoning slowly spreading through his system. His family was at the bedside, but the old statesman rarely opened his eyes and warrior rarely opened his eyes gloved hands lying inertly on the covers.

A final tribute to the war-time premier was inspired by Gratien Candace, deputy from Guadeloupe. Since any of the country's high honors seemed inadequate, Candace asked the government to perform a final act which appeared fitting—to award Clemenceau the military medal, which ordinarily is granted only to privates and non-commissioned officers as a supreme decoration for valor on the battlefield.

Clemenceau always regarded himself as a civilian soldier of France, and among his last requests was the insistence one that no state funeral be accorded.

The Clemenceau family sent Deputy George Mandel to ask Premier Andre Tardieu that an exception be made by the government in sacrificing its right to seal the furniture and the house of its former chief of state upon his death, as would ordinarily be the custom.

The request was due to the family's desire to remove the body at once to Vendee, the ancestral home, for immediate burial in accordance with Clemenceau's wishes. In that peaceful countryside, without the pomp of a state funeral in Paris, his body will be placed upright in an open and waiting grave beside those of his father and mother. Tardieu assured Michel Clemenceau, the former's son, that the government has no intention of sealing the home and no intention of interfering with the premier's desire for a quiet burial. Tardieu pointed out that seals are necessary only in the case of army, navy or state chiefs dying while in office.

Dr. Cosset, the eminent surgeon who is one of the doctors attending Clemenceau, expressed surprise at the patient's resistance. "His condition is hopeless," Dr. Cosset said, "but his heart is extraordinary."

COOK COUNTY TAX ASSESSOR INDICTED

Chicago, Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—Gene Oliver, for five years a member of Cook county's board of tax assessors, has been indicted by the government on a charge of evading income tax payments.

The amount owed in tax was estimated at $42,000 for 1926, 1927 and 1928, based on a net income for the three years of $272,616.68. Oliver's salary as a tax assessor is $9,000 a year. Other earnings were explained as from "legal services rendered," "profits from race bets," and "large deposits of currency."

SHOTGUN CHARGES END FAMILY QUARREL

Gwinn, Mich., Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—Two charges from a shotgun ended a family quarrel between Felix Beltrami and his wife.

Exasperated at the disagreement with his wife yesterday, Beltrami brought his shotgun into play. One charge struck Mrs. Beltrami full in the face and she received another in the back as she turned from her infuriated husband.

Beltrami then wounded himself in his face and inflicted a second wound in his abdomen. When neighbors arrived Mrs. Beltrami was dead and Beltrami died a few hours later.

First General Snowstorm Strikes Widespread Sections of the Atlantic Seaboard Today

MERCURY RISES IN MINNESOTA AND NORTHWEST

SNOW FALLS IN NEW YORK AND PENNSYLVANIA AND EVEN IN SOUTH

STORM CAUSES NEARLY SCORE OF DEATHS AS IT SWEEPS TO EAST

New York, Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—The first general snow storm of the season has struck widespread sections of the Atlantic seaboard and, after a night of below freezing temperatures and biting winds, the storm area was expected to widen today.

Snow fell yesterday in New England, New York and Pennsylvania, and as far south as Charlotte, N. C. Philadelphia reported a heavy fall, and the storm included Washington, Baltimore and parts of Virginia.

Northerly winds of increasing intensity and continued cold were forecast for today.

The storm originated in the west and spread eastward, causing nearly a score of deaths, chiefly from automobile accidents.

St. Paul, Nov. 23.—The storm which brought the northwest its first substantial taste of winter late this week moved south and east today leaving the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and southwestern Canada with clearing skies and somewhat higher temperatures.

Almost the entire region was covered with a blanket of snow but where the mercury had fallen to as low as 16 degrees below zero Thursday, the minimum temperature reported today was 6 degrees above zero at Moorhead.

That western Minnesota town had clear skies and there were indications that Sunday would find it enjoying more livable weather.

The two coldest spots in the region Friday were Minnedosa, Canada, where it was 6 below and Devils Lake, N. D., 4 below.

Government forecasters predicted cold weather again for tonight with temperatures ranging between 10 and 15 degrees above. The light snow which fell on parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin was expected to end before midnight.

The Minnesota highway department had no reports of blocked roads and did not expect drifting snow to cause any difficulties.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Southerly winds brought relief from the mid-winter weather of the last two days to the middle west today, although rain and snow fell in several sections.

The sudden shift from an icy northwester ended a record breaking November cold snap that spread across the hinterland from the Rockies to beyond the Great Lakes and extended down into the old south.

Milwaukee's minimum of 5 degrees above zero was the coldest for that day in 32 years while the mercury dipped below the zero mark in Minne-

MAY END BUILDING SITE BATTLE DEC. 10

THE STATE OFFICE BUILDING SQUABBLE HAS GONE ON FOR MONTHS

St. Paul, Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—The long battle over the site of the proposed $1,500,000 state office building may definitely be settled on Dec. 10, it was indicated here today after the building commission in executive session late Friday still voiced its approval of the University Avenue or so-called "back-yard site."

The fight over the two sites on the capitol grounds — University Avenue and Wabasha Street — has gone on for months with many influential citizens of the Twin Cities insisting on placing the proposed building on Wabasha street.

Cass Gilbert, nationally known architect, who designed the capitol, has aligned himself with the St. Paul-Minneapolis group as opposed to the University Avenue plot.

sota, Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa and hovered around it in Missouri and Illinois.

With Memphis as the hub, a snow of five to seven inches deep lay yesterday over portions of western Tennessee, northern Mississippi and eastern Arkansas.

The coldest in Chicago yesterday was 8 above. The weather bureau reported the maximum was 21 and predicted the warmest today would be at least 15 degrees higher than that.

Recurrence of cold was predicted for tomorrow and storm warnings were sent to shippers on the Great Lakes.

ARCHBISHOP NOW ORDERS HOLY CROSS CEMETERY CLOSED

ONLY FUNERAL PROCESSIONS ALLOWED IN BURIAL GROUNDS AFTER SUNDAY

CLOSED TO ALLOW INVESTIGATION OF REPORTED MIRACULOUS CURES

Boston, Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston and dean of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in America, has ordered that Holy Cross cemetery, Malden, be closed on and after Monday, pending an investigation of the hundreds of supposedly miraculous cures reported at the grave of the Rev. Patrick J. Power.

Only funeral processions will be allowed in the cemetery after Sunday, according to a statement issued by the chancellor's office of the Diocesan House here last night.

"By the request of Cardinal O'Connell we are asked to publish broadcast everywhere that the situation of the cemetery in Malden has become such that an investigation is being made into the whole situation which has developed during the past month," the announcement said.

The action of Cardinal O'Connell will end the pilgrimages of thousands of persons to the young priest's grave, where many reported cures have been made.

Despite the chill November weather yesterday more than 12,000 persons visited the tomb where eight cures were claimed in the last 24 hours.

BANDIT ROBS GROCER FOR SEVENTH TIME

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—Life is just one robbery after another for Sam Feldman, Atlanta grocer, and all by the same bandit.

"How much you got for me this time?" Feldman was asked by a negro who flashed a revolver.

The voice was strangely familiar to the grocer. It was the seventh time he had heard it this year. Feldman made no protest as the bandit extracted $20 in cash and a dollar in stamps from the cash register and walked out.

Two St. Paul Boys Die in Automobile Mishaps

St. Paul, Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—Two boys were killed and two others were injured near here Friday in automobile and motorcycle mishaps. Richard Huebner, 16, died in St. Joseph's hospital shortly before midnight of injuries received when a motorcycle on which he was riding collided with an automobile and Thaddeus Schifsky, 10, was instantly killed when he ran into the path of a car driven by a school teacher.

MISTRESS WISHES HER PET TERRIER BURIED WITH HER

Denver, Colo., Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—Pert, brown and white fox terrier, will be chloroformed and buried in the same casket with his mistress, Mrs. Alto Birchmore, 85, if her death wish is carried out.

The wish was expressed just before the aged woman died yesterday. She said she was afraid Pert might not be fed the right diet, hamburger, tomatoes and bran twice daily.

Pert was born in the trenches in France 12 years ago and was given to Mrs. Birchmore by a world war veteran.

TIDAL WAVE CAUSES CAUSES ESTIMATED TO TOTAL $2,000,000

DEEDS OF HEROISM AND SACRIFICE ONCE DISPLAYED IN RELIEF WORK

DOG SWIMS TO SAFETY CARRYING HIS MASTER'S BABY GIRL

By J. G. MEANEY
(United Press Special Correspondent)

St. Johns, N. F., Nov. 23.—Deeds of heroism and sacrifice were revealed today with initiation of general relief work along the southeastern shore of Burin peninsula, devastated Monday night by earthquake and tidal wave.

With a revised list of 28 dead and some still unaccounted for, outside aid reached the stricken villages today to provide shelter and food for the homeless, to care for the suffering and initiate reconstruction.

Relief committees after a survey estimated property damage along the shore from Burin south to Lamaline would total at least $2,000,000, the majority of it in buildings and fishing equipment.

The night of terror which followed the crushing advance of the tidal wave witnessed not only human heroism but the sacrifice of man's devoted animal servant, the dog. From Port-Aux-Bras, near where nine persons were swept out to sea, came the story of the sacrifice of a faithful Newfoundland dog.

The dog plunged into the receding wave as it carried away the dwelling in which his master and his master's baby girl were trapped. The dog soon was sighted swimming back for shore, the child held high above the water. Waiting hands helped the dog to shore and the child was revived. The dog escaped from restraining hands and plunged back into the sea.

Nearing the floating dwelling, the dog was caught and crushed in the collapse of another building floating on the surface. His master also perished.

Another story from Port-Aux-Bras told of a young husband who with his two children in his arms and his wife clinging to his shoulders plunged through the window of his home into the wall of water. The mother was lost in the torrent but the children and father reached safety. A neighbor fisherman saw the mother and brought her near the shore only to sink beneath the waves as he handed her to the arms of rescuers.

FRESH FORCES ONLY ASSURANCE FOR MENACED TOWNS

200 SOLDIERS FROM SAN FRANCISCO CISCO AID STATE FIRE FORCES

HELPED TO TURN FLAMES AWAY FROM BELMONT AND SAN CARLOS

San Mateo, Calif., Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—Wearry fire fighters, who battled throughout the night to control forest and brush fires in the mountains west of here, today believed they had controlled the blaze on the crest of the ridge, but issued an appeal to the San Francisco Presidio for more troops.

Two hundred soldiers who had reinforced the volunteer and state fire fighting forces had helped turn the tide of flames away from the peninsula towns of Belmont and San Carlos. But with prospect of the wind again rising as daylight came, it was apparent that safety for those settlements and others menaced by the fire could only be assured by fresh firefighting forces.

San Mateo, Calif., Nov. 23.—Rushed in the dead of night to a fireline ever increasing in size, 200 soldiers from the Presidio at San Francisco, 20 miles north of here, today were added to the hundreds of persons already combating a monstrous forest and brush fire which has burned over thousands of acres, destroyed the town of Montara, and is now threatening five other peninsula communities.

The fire broke out on a ranch near Skyline Boulevard Thursday, and had been considered under control, when suddenly, late yesterday, it flared up anew, racing down the heavily wooded canyons toward the populated regions.

Not only are the towns of Belmont and San Carlos, which lie directly in the path of the flames, threatened with destruction, but the palatial country homes in the hills behind San Mateo and Burlingame may be endangered should the wind shift southward.

This fire was only one of a series of destructive blazes which were burning today in central and northern California, defying the efforts of hundreds of fire fighters. Low humidity was largely responsible for the inability of the firemen, rangers and volunteers to stop the flames.

In Contra Costa county, a few miles behind Oakland, a fire was sweeping down the Redwood Canyon toward San Leandro and the Lake Chabot section. Ten companies of the Oakland fire department reinforced volunteers in combating the blazes from which sparks were already threatening rooftops on outlying homes.

Warnings were sent to Berkeley and Oakland by State Ranger Allen Chute that conditions were critical, and urging that East Bay cities be ready to send out fire fighting crews at a moment's notice.

The town of Lan Honda, in the heart of the magnificent Redwood belt, was endangered by another fire, only a few miles from the main blaze threatening peninsula towns. This fire also threatened the San Mateo county memorial grove, a Redwood Park dedicated to war heroes.

In Northern California rangers were fighting fires in Yuba, Calaveras and Nevada counties.

Sheriff's offices and fire wardens were investigating rumors that many of the fires were of incendiary origin. Twenty-five buildings in Montara were destroyed by the main peninsula fire Friday. Flames roared into the town, barely giving inhabitants time enough to escape with a few personal belongings.

A. P. Wagner gave a description of the "red terror" that swept into town late at night.

"I awoke to find flames roaring into town. I roused my family, knowing that we would have to flee for our lives. We got into our car, and though we drove at top speed from our home a mile from town, the wind was so strong that it swept flames along the sides of the road ahead of us."

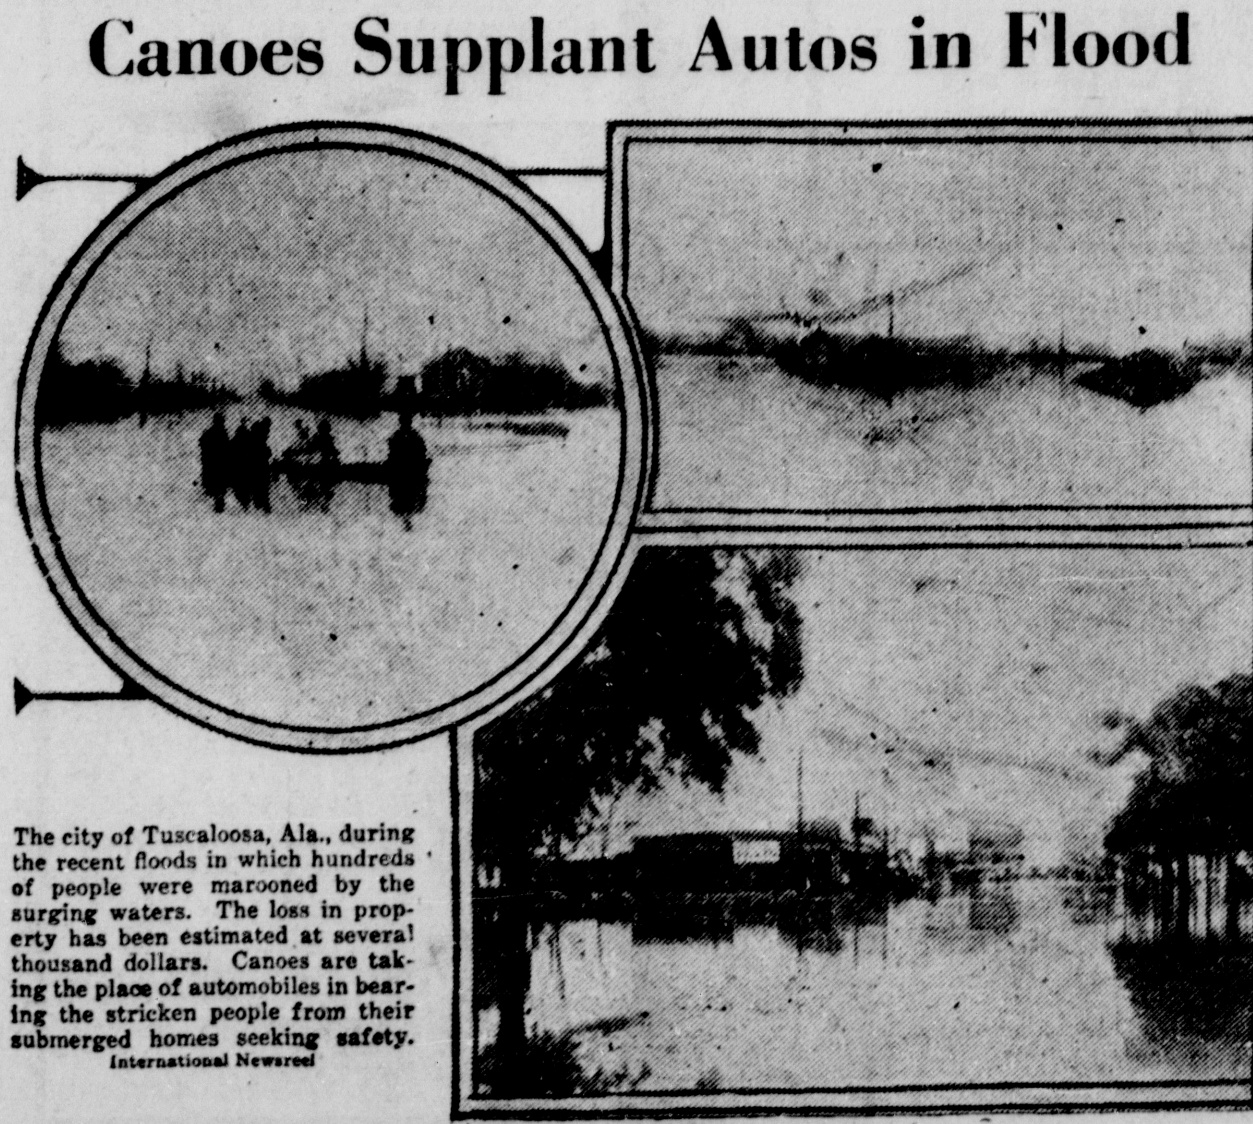

Wagner awoke other citizens who fled, leaving their homes and businesses to the devastating flames.

The first alarm was given by rangers, and soon Spring Valley water company workers and volunteers, armed with wet sacks and shovels—puny weapons in the face of the fury of the fire—were sent to the hills in commandeered automobiles.

These means and numbers proved inadequate to cope with the fire, and when it was seen that the towns were endangered, Sheriff J. J. McGrath sent a hurry call for additional help. Prisoners were released from the county jail, and side by side with their keepers, they toiled and sweated on the fireline.

Major Ralph C. Smith brought a company of infantrymen to the assistance of the fire fighters, rushing them down the highway from San Francisco in army trucks.

Red Cross forces were mobilized and prepared to serve the refreshments to the fire fighters, while separate units (Continued on page 8)

Camp Fire Notes

(Contributed)
The Oawenso Camp Fire girls of the Harrison school held a ceremonial meeting at the home of Gladys Haugen. Miss Marie Adair gave a very interesting talk about her canoe trip last summer showing her kodak pictures of the trip. This was our first ceremonial meeting since we were at Camp Minneyahat this summer so we were very proud to get our camp beads. We earned these beads in the following way:

Fry an egg on a hot stove.
Take proper care of a tent for one week.
Make four fuzz sticks.
Observe the gospel of the clean plate.

Camp out-of-doors for a week end.
The girls received leather honors for donating to the Phoenix fund. We sang a Thanksgiving song and the words of the song are:

"For nights with stars, for paths for paths to follow,
And for the hills, for hills to climb,
For love to cast its glow in deeply shadowed places,
And for the poignant beauty of the spring;
For gay red autumn to be happy in,
For friends who speak our language and who understand,
And so for all these wonderfully glorious things,
We thank Thee, Lord, we thank Thee, thank Thee, Lord."

One of the members of our group, Ruth Stinson, is leaving us and will live in Minneapolis. We are sorry to lose Ruth.

We are very busy these days getting our articles ready for our Christmas sale which will be held at the next meeting of the Harrison P. T. A. Dec. 9.

All the pupils and teachers of the Harrison school have voted on the national flower and we will send in the votes to the Nature magazine which is sponsoring the contest. This contest closes Dec. 1 and we are anxious to know which flower will be chosen for our national flower.

WHY

The Public is

Turning to Building &

Loan

Figures recently made public reveal some interesting facts about building and loan associations. During the year 1928 the resources of the 12,666 associations in the U. S. increased $837,471,876 to bring the combined resources to the impressive total of more than EIGHT BILLION dollars. 659,644 new investors joined building and loan or an average of 2,290 EVERY BUSINESS DAY. The total membership now exceeds TWELVE MILLION or one of every 12 of the nation's entire population. Last year the associations loaned $751,305,735 on homes. The number of homes financed PER DAY averaged about 1,000.

Statistics for the past nine years reveal the remarkable fact that this vast business has been carried on with an AVERAGE ANNUAL LOSS OF ONLY 6-1000 (.006) of 1% of total resources. On this record it would take 166 years to lose 1%.

Is it any wonder that people everywhere are turning to building and loan? Is it not perfectly natural that the resources of the Twin City Building & Loan Association should increase A MILLION DOLLARS IN 10 MONTHS? Isn't it natural that the wise investor prefers our shares on which we have regularly paid 7% dividends and in which either large or small sums may be invested? Also, withdrawals have always been paid without notice. No need to hunt for a market; no need to worry over falling values, for our shares do not fluctuate. They are always worth DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR for they are strictly non-speculative.

Let us send you our beautiful 28-page illustrated booklet "Investing and Saving for Safety and Profit" which tells the whole fascinating story about building and loan. Just say: "Send booklet 'B' or pin this advertisement to your card or letter-head."

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1929

Book Week

BOOK WEEK this year covers the period November 17 to 23 and has been very generally observed throughout the nation.

As mentioned in The Booklist, for eleven years Children's Book Week has been observed in the libraries, schools, book-stores and homes of the United States, and interest in the subject of children's books and reading has been greatly stimulated thereby.

The movement was brought about by groups of people and by individuals who believed that the reading of good books should be the heritage of every child, that the good books written for them should be more widely known, and that within a certain realm the child should be allowed freedom of choice.

At the present time so much emphasis is placed upon the proper selection of children's books that there is grave danger that the last phase will be ignored. If care is not exercised our young Americans will presently add another item to the charts they are urged to keep; and the book of the week or the reading for the day will be checked off along with the orange juice, eight hours sleep, and setting up exercises, and the great adventure of reading will be lost to girls and boys.

There still remains for the children's librarian the unique opportunity of offering to young people shelves filled with well selected books from which they may choose the one they desire at the time they wish to read it. She should see to it that her collection is one designed to satisfy girls and boys; that in it are books which will cultivate good taste, stimulate the habit of reading, and afford an introduction to the realm of adult literature.

With the holiday season coming apace, many parents and others may wish to give books as presents. The local librarian has many books on display which are suitable reading for young children. Mothers and others should look them over. The librarian will also give advice in the choice of books for others older in years. They may be purchased in the many stores in Brainerd.

Poultry Show at Brainerd

THE Crow Wing County Poultry Show which will be held at Brainerd on December 4 and 5 is expected to almost fill the entire spacious U. C. T. Auditorium with its exhibits.

Poultry lovers are going to have a treat by seeing some of the finest poultry raised in the Northwest, as exhibitors both in and out of the state have made application for entry.

One exhibitor alone expects to bring nearly 200 birds. Brainerd is becoming more and more a poultry center. The poultry industry in the county has increased 500 per cent in the last ten years, growing in that period from a $35,000 business to a $160,000 business.

We have several new big poultry men locating in Brainerd, one of them with a hatchery that expects to put all varieties of breeds on the market. Sam Hawkins, our local hatchery, is planning on doubling his capacity. Mr. Lindberg, on the Two Mile Corner, is building one of the largest poultry houses in Crow Wing county where he expects to raise capons, market poultry and go in heavy on egg production. He already has a flock of 1,300 which he expects to double within a year.

One of the features of the show will be a large turkey exhibit. Crow Wing county turkey breeders have adopted the Billings method of raising turkeys that has proven so successful in other parts of the state. Crow Wing county has more than 100 flocks of turkeys, some of which are up to 450 in number. It is expected that with the increase in poultry to be able to soon market poultry in carload lots, thereby giving our poultry men better advantages in marketing.

Seeking Power Extensions

FRED D. VIBERT of Duluth, former legislator and newspaperman, now with the Minnesota Power & Light Company, as agricultural and industrial agent, was in Brainerd this week on his way to Little Falls.

He has been making a trip over the territory served by the company, discussing with local managers the local problems and what may be done to assist civic organizations to develop their region.

The power company is naturally interested in selling more juice and believes that further development can be made with what we already have. A survey just completed by Mr. Vibert shows that the agricultural income in the ten counties served by the Minnesota Power & Light Company exceeds $37,000,000, some $13,000,000 from cream checks and $3,000,000 from eggs.

Rural power and light lines can be extended where there are four or more farmers to the mile, with a sufficient income to use enough power and light to keep the rate low enough to be attractive. The ten counties served are Todd, Morrison, Wadena, Crow Wing, Hubbard, Cass, Itasca, St. Louis, Carlton and Pine.

In the Brainerd Lake Region the Pine River power company was early on the ground and has extended lines in all directions serving cottages, etc. A survey of the region, however, may show opportunities still existing at the lakes for the Minnesota Power & Light Company.

Two Different Ways to Fight Fire

WHEN the university hospital at San Francisco had a fire originate in its X-ray room, no disaster followed. Women who were in charge at the time, from telephone switchboard girl to superintendent, handled the episode coolly and calmly and not a life was lost, not a patient succumbed. The fire department wearing gas masks penetrated the flaming room and doused the fire.

Elevators ceased to function, but in spite of that the girl nurses removed every patient from the five story building and after the fire was out and rooms aired, had the patients back. When it was all over, the girls relaxed, sat down and had a good cry.

Compare this with the Cleveland hospital disaster where many lost their lives and the men in charge from hospital attaches to firemen seem to have worked at cross purposes.

THE air we breathe is more important from the health standpoint than the food we eat. Man can survive considerable periods without eating; but place him in a compartment from which pure air is excluded, and he will die in a few moments.

COLLEGIANS' RUM

Liquor confiscated in a raid on the campus community house at the University of Illinois is shown in picture. The men are, left to right, Elmer Shoaf, State's Attorney Cline and Deputies Hudson, Kirt and Fred Shoaf. Officials of Champaign county raided the fraternity house at 2 a. m. Sunday morning.

A PRETTY GRAPEFRUIT PICKER

MISS RUTH YBANEZ, of Tampa, Florida, plucking some choice specimens of November grapefruit to grace the Thanksgiving Day tables of some of her friends in the North. Florida is now in the midst of harvesting a crop of 16,000,000 boxes of oranges and grapefruit. The Tampa beauty is a grand niece of the late Blasco Ibanez, famous Spanish author, and has just finished her first appearance in motion pictures. Her beauty attracted a leading motion picture director and she was given a part in "Hell Harbor", first 100 per cent. talkie to be made on location and just finished at Rocky Point, Florida.

Tragic End of an Air Tour over
New York Brings Death to Pilot

Before the eyes of horror-stricken thousands, an airplane tumbled helplessly from an elevation of 2,000 feet and smashed itself on a roof at Central Park West, New York. The pilot, Charles I. Reid, one-time army officer, rode with his craft to the end and was killed. His passenger, Robert J. Baille, saved his life by a daring parachute leap. Police Commissioner Whalen took charge of the investigation, and is shown examining the wrecked plane on one of New York City's skyscrapers.

The Passing Show

It's a show that changes every day. Keeps abreast of the times. Always up to date—ever in step with the mode, or a little ahead—turning the spotlight for you on the things that are new, smart, stylish, convenient—desirable.

The Passing Show of current times—the advertisements in your newspaper. Packed with interest—alive with the vitality and surging change of this modern day.

The advertisements are more than reliable buying guides. Indications of quality they are, surely—for today no manufacturer can win lasting success by buying publicity for a cheap or shoddy product. Advertising weeds out the unfit. But more than that—advertisements are the fascinating daily record of progress in industry—of advances in the world of goods and services. And of such things you need to be fully informed—for you are the one who buys them.

Buy intelligently—with open eyes. Read the advertisements every day. Compare values . . . know what's new, what's better, and why. When you start out to spend your money—be informed!

Make it a habit to follow the advertisements.
Every day there's a new edition of
The Passing Show!

GOPHERS LEAD BADGERS 13-12 IN THE THIRD QUARTER

WISCONSIN HOLDS EDGE AS LAST GAME OF SEASON STARTS

BRONKO NAGURSKI, ONE OF 9
GOPHERS, IN LAST GAME OF CAREER

COLD WEATHER MAY MAKE
STRAIGHT FOOTBALL IMPERATIVE
FOR BOTH TEAMS
FINAL SCORE

Led by Bronko Nagurski, Gopher fullback, Minnesota was leading Wisconsin 13 to 6 at the half in the final game of the season at Memorial Stadium this afternoon. Wisconsin scored in the first quarter but the Gophers came back in the second quarter, Nagurski scoring two touchdowns. Art Phamer place kicked a goal after one touchdown. The other attempted point after touchdown failed.

Wisconsin threatened again in the third quarter, scoring a touchdown. The attempt for the point after the touchdown failed.

By HECTOR PERRIER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Minneapolis, Nov. 23. — The 1929 chapter of a football epic which was begun by Minnesota and Wisconsin away back in 1890, was written here today as the neighboring rivals trotted out before 55,000 shivering fans to play their last game of the season.

Nothing was at stake but the game itself since the Gophers and Badgers, for whom great things were predicted as the season opened, closed the year far down in the Big Ten record book. Minnesota had lost close games to Iowa and Michigan while Wisconsin fell before Northwestern, Iowa and Purdue.

Dr. Clarence W. Spears and gloomy Glen Thistlethwaite, coaches of the Gophers, hope on the outcome of this 39th meeting of the teams they represent since a victory meant better than a 500 ranking for the doctor and to Thistlethwaite an opportunity to shoot the Badger alumni who have begun the clamor for his scalp.

There was no denying the fact that Wisconsin held the "edge." The Big Cardinal team was in far better physical condition than the Maroon and Golds and with two weeks of rest and preparation behind them, came north surging with confidence.

Three of Minnesota's starting linemen—Pulkabek, Munn and Langenberg—were badly weakened by poundings during a heavy season and the men they face were in healthy, fighting mettle.

It was highly improbable that either of the three could go the full route and where Spears had decidedly weaker material to throw into their places Thistlethwaite had an imposing army of reserves from which to draw.

The backfields were evenly matched with Minnesota pinning its hopes on big Bronko Nagurski, one of the nine Gophers playing their last game.

Both team were expected to play passing games unless cold weather made safe, straight football game imperative.

In the 38 games since their rivalry began nearly four decades ago, Minnesota has won 20, Wisconsin 13 and five ended in tie scores. Wisconsin has not defeated the Gophers since 1922.

The line-ups:
Wisconsin—Gantenbein, lb; Lubravovich, lt; Tobias, lg; Kruger, c; Parks, rg; Ketelaar, rt; Jensen, re; Lusby, qb; Oman, lhb; R. Rehholz, rlb; H. Rehholz, fb.
Minnesota—Anderson, lb; Munn; lt; Reihson, lg; Oja, c; Kakkela, rg; Langenberg, rt; Tanner, re; Brownell, qb; Lekesell, lhb; Riebeth, rlb; Nagurski, fb.

50,000 WITNESS RAMBLERS AND PURPLE IN CLASH

NOTRE DAME ENTERS STRUGGLE WITH EVERYTHING TO LOSE

GAME WITH SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA THOUGHT TO HAVE WEAKENED TEAM

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—The Rambling Irish of Notre Dame entered their game against Northwestern here today with everything to lose, nothing much except the game to win, and without their coach, Knute Rockne, on the sidelines to guide them.

While Rockne's condition was described by his physicians as "not critical in any sense," it was found that his trip to Chicago last week had slightly delayed his recovery and it was deemed unwise for him to venture out into the cold again today.

Notre Dame, undefeated this year despite the fact it has played one of the stiffest schedules ever attempted by any team, was the favorite although it was admitted that, for various reasons, the Wildcats were almost an even choice to win and spoil the claim of the Irish to a national title. The big thing in Northwestern's favor—excepting, of course, Rockne's absence—was the fact that just a week ago Notre Dame was forced to the limit to beat Southern California and modern football records show that few teams are at their best two weeks in succession.

A crowd of 50,000 was expected.

"Big Ten's" Wind-Up

By HARDIN BURNLEY

ALEX IS ONE REASON FOR THE GREAT SHOWING OF PURDUE!

Alex YUNEVICH

Sam WILLAMAN of Ohio State.

"Big 10" FIREWORKS

THE LAST DAY'LL DECIDE THE "BIG 10" RACE AGAIN!

MINNESOTA, Purdue and Ohio State were the standouts in "Big Ten" Western Conference football which closes its season Saturday. As has been the rule for years, "The Big Ten" is again studded with stars of All-American calibre, with coaches of great ability, and with a calibre of football worthy even of "The Big Three" when Yale, Harvard and Princeton were the unquestioned class of the gridiron game.

Take Minnesota, for instance. Many besides its famous coach, Clarence W. Spears, think the 1929 Gophers constitute one of the most powerful teams ever known. Spears himself (always prominently mentioned for "all time" honors as a Dartmouth lineman) rates "our line as great from tip to tip, the backfield is excellent and it has one of the super-stars in Bronko Nagurski—a real All-American in and behind, any competent front wall." Besides Nagurski, the Gophers have such dazzling backs as Phamer and Brockmeyer with topnotch reserves for all positions. Purdue, with a powerful team built around such big stars as Alex Yunevich and "Pest" Welch, by the chance of schedules, does not play Minnesota or Ohio State this season. That will always be regretted because the Sport Bug cannot conceive a more titanic clash of gridiron man power than a game between the Gophers and the Boilermakers would afford, save possibly a like contest between Pittsburgh and Tulane!

Coach Sam Willaman has shaped Ohio State into a formidable fighting team with "Wes" Fessler, remarkable end as its outstanding star. Pitt beat the Buckeyes, 15-2 on Nov. 2, in a non-conference game; but since the Panthers seem to have one of those rather rare super-teams, their victory by no means ruined the prestige of Willaman's team.

It is not unusual for the "Big Ten" championship to be decided on the last day of the season's play. Neither is it exceptional for that title being decided on comparative scores, etc.

Football fans anywhere never think of the "Big Ten" without recalling the most sportsmanly gesture in the game's history when Northwestern waived the championship in 1925 after defeating Michigan, 3-2, on a wet field. Northwestern insured victory by deliberately taking a safety in that game where mud and water checked Benny Friedman and his great Michigan team. After the game, Northwestern officially waived the "Big Ten" title to the Wolverines—as splendid an act of sportsmanship as was ever conceived and executed!

Another "Pop" Warner Day?

By HARDIN BURNLEY

THE OLD FOX OF THE PACIFIC, WHOSE STANFORD ELEVEN WILL TRY TO SPOIL "NIBS" PRICE'S DREAM OF A NATIONAL TITLE!

BURNLEY 11-23

CALIFORNIA'S Golden Bears will make a supreme effort to establish their claim for highest national football honors of 1929 when they play Stanford at Palo Alto. Coach "Nib" Price's "Bears" by no means are regarded as "sure things" to beat the illustrious "Pop" Warner's Stanfordians.

True it is that University of Southern California surprised many on Oct. 26 by defeating Stanford, 7-0, and then losing the following Saturday to the Golden Bears, 7-15—both upsets, to be sure; yet team play, rather than luck, won in each instance. California clearly beat the team that beat Stanford clearly; hence logic would seem to make the Bears favorites over Warner's warriors today. Such logic, however, is but an airy and uncertain guide to rely on when picking the winner of today's Coast classic. Indeed, Stanford is likely to be a decided favorite before the starting whistle blows! California would seem to depend for its scoring punch on the-trap is the usual receiver though Lee Eisan at close by he may serve chiefly as a decoy.

Of course, passing is but one phase of a Warner offensive. A slashing line attack is Stanford's strong suit, and, with enough effective personnel on hand to make up three full teams with good reserves besides, "Pop" Warner's boys should exhibit about everything in his vast football arsenal against the Golden Bears. In addition to Simkins, Stanford has Bill Clark, Chuck Smaling, Herb Fleishacker and other carriers to advance the ball if their line can hold its own against those Riegels-inspired Golden Bears. Both teams have improved steadily throughout the season. Surely as many sports bugs will follow the Stanford-California clash at Palo Alto today as will await with keen interest the result of the ancient Yale-Harvard game, at Cambridge, Mass., where Eli's Albie Booth will try to justify the fame that has made him 1929's most talked-of football star.

LET WINTER COME, HIGHWAY MEN SAY

Departments in County and District
Prepared to Meet Heavy
Winter Snowfalls

SNOWFENCING ALREADY UP

State Highway Department Completing
Overhauling of 20
Trucks, Ten Plows

Let the stormy, wintry blasts blow—so said officials of the State and County Highway Departments here today. They were ready at a minute's notice to dispatch plows to clear the highways of snow, they announced.

In the State Highway Department plant, Laurel street west, machinists and mechanics were competing overhauling jobs on the trucks while other workmen were engaged in painting all trucks and snowplow equipment orange.

Twenty trucks will be used in the removal of snow from state highways while ten plows will be employed in connection. The equipment includes one five ton Holt caterpillar with Rotary plow and two 12 ton Monarch caterpillars with Rotary plow capable of piling snow 25 feet high. Other trucks to be used include two Whites, six Macks, and four Coleman.

The department will also place 33 miles of snowfencing along highways where the fencing will do the most good. Many miles of this fencing has already been placed.

The County Highway Department will have three plows engaged in snow removal while six miles of snowfencing is being placed on state aid roads. Fourteen miles of snowfencing is being put up by various townships throughout the county.

Bounty and Beauty for Thanksgiving

THE joyous and bountiful spirit of Thanksgiving demands the proper background at the dinner table. In the above picture every detail is one of cheer. The strutting turkeys, the succulent grapes and apples, and the scattering of fall leaves upon the snowy linen damask cloth are in perfect keeping with the spirit of this happy feast time.

Jack Oakie and Evelyn Brent in a scene from the Paramount Picture "Fast Company"

"Fast Company" Lardner Story

"Fast Company," Paramount's version of a famous Ring Lardner story, comes to the Lyceum on Sunday and Monday.

This is a fast-moving comedy romance containing all the brilliant humor originally injected into the story (one of the "You Know Me Al" series) by the author, and all the additional blarney which the camera alone can contribute to a play of this thrilling type.

Jack Oakie, young comedian who the more than a year, plays the blundering, boastful small-town boy who makes good in "Fast Company." He is the hero of the play.

Richard "Skeets" Gallagher, another comedian whose success in films is commensurate with Oakie's, plays the part of Oakie's personal manager. Evelyn Brent and Gwen Lee, as a pair of teamed actresses, provide the feminine side of the love-interest.

The original Lardner story was called "Hurricane," a Broadway stage play, based on the story, and called "Elmer the Great" brought unstinted praises to Lardner and to Walter Huston, who is now acting for Paramount with great success. "Fast Company" is the film version based on the original story and the play.

SEES RADIO AS CULTURAL AID

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick in Message to Young Singers

RADIO INDUSTRY GROWS

Thirty Million Listeners Eagerly Accept Cultural Advances in Programs

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 23.—I believe that our people everywhere are to be congratulated in this Third National Radio Audition which brings boys and girls of every state in the union into friendly competition as but another proof that radio is important in a cultural way.

So declares Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of the late Mark Hanna and Congresswoman-at-large from the state of Illinois, in a message to the young singers meeting in Chicago tonight in the first of two evenings broadcast of the mid-west district competitions of the Third National Radio Audition. Mrs. McCormick was chairman of the Illinois State committee in the 1927 National Radio Audition and Honorary Chairman this year. In her message to the radio listeners, going out over a network of broadcasting stations in the mid-west especially arranged by the National Broadcasting Company in co-operation with the Atwater Kent Foundation, sponsors of the auditions, Mrs. McCormick said, in part:

"I believe that our people everywhere are to be congratulated upon their lively interest in this competition and certainly the Atwater Kent Foundation of Philadelphia is entitled to grateful acknowledgment of their effort in thus inspiring countrywide interest in amateur singers.

"Some critics of America profess to find among our people more interest in the development of our material lives than in our cultural advancement but the radio has succeeded in conquering that view. There is no question of the tremendous possibilities in radio communications along such utilitarian lines as the extension of commerce and merchandising. The radio industry in itself has grown so great that it represents sales of more than six hundred million dollars a year in equipment for listeners. But all these things cannot justify us in ignoring the fact that more than thirty million radio listeners have even more eagerly accepted the many cultural advances offered in the broadcasting programs."

THANKSGIVING MEETING

Held by Group of Ladies at Home of Mrs. E. P. Slipp, 392 Juniper Street

(Contributed)
Thursday afternoon a Thanksgiving meeting was held when a number of ladies assembled at the home of Mrs. E. P. Slipp, 392 Juniper street, a short program being carried out relative to the Divine command, "Preach the Gospel, heal the sick and cleanse the lepers."

Attention was called to the month of November as being the chosen month of the year for the observance of Thanksgiving Day.

As we retrospect we realize the first thanksgiving for the New World was a memorable occasion.

In the early spring of 1493 Columbus returned to Spain from his first voyage of discovery and on landing at Palos he and his crew went to the principal church, accompanied by the whole population, and offered up solemn thanksgiving for the success of the expedition.

An address on "Thanksgiving," from Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, was presented by Mrs. W. C. Mannis, in which was stated: "It is a credit to our country that 'Thanksgiving' became a festival on American soil when the colonial fathers were establishing their homes in the New England wilderness. There, in bleak surroundings and from the midst of keen privations, they thanked God and took courage."

From "Adventures in Soul-Winning," by Geo. T. B. Davis, missionary to Latin America, "The Sunshine Invalid," was read by Miss Lillian Peterson. This invalid is Miss H. R. Higgins of Melbourne, Australia, and is considered one of the most remarkable invalids of that great commonwealth. Miss Higgins in having a dread disease had to have one arm amputated and then the other. Then she had to have one limb taken off and then to crown her afflictions she lost her voice. In a dream or vision it was shown her how she could be of service in her Master's vineyard. Later it was made manifest that Miss Higgins had put out 137 souls to a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ.

A social hour followed at which time bandages were made for the lepers of the Korean hospital where over 300 dressings are daily required for the lepers. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Miss Peterson assisting in serving.

A very liberal thank-offering was received not only by those present but from outside friends who were not able to be in attendance, and in the "labor of love" many bandages were rolled, several also contributing to material for the making of these.

If there are any folks in Brainerd or the surrounding vicinity who would like a share in this investment of sending bandages for suffering lepers kindly make a thank-offering of old table and bed linen, sheets, table cloths, pillow cases, napkins and leave the same with Mrs. W. C. Mannis, Mrs. R. L. Geist or Mrs. E. P. Slipp, who will give proper attention to the requirements of the making and sending such articles as demanded of The American Mission to lepers.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT M. E. CLOSE

Rev. Arthur Dinsdale Uses for His Text "The Supreme Constraint"

The closing service of special services conducted at the M. E. church the past week by Rev. Arthur Dinsdale of Hibbing was held last evening.

The preacher used the text "The Love of Christ Constrains Us," his subject being "The Supreme Constraint."

"The word 'constraineth' is a very expressive word," he said, "it means 'something that holds together,' keeps individuals to some task, keeps organizations to some purpose. Paul was impelled by Christ's love as the urge of his life and ministry. We are all under the urge of making a living. The love of Christ helps us to a proper estimate of material considerations. When we are motivated by the Supreme Constraint our physical, mental and social powers will serve our best interests. We are under the urge of making a character.

"Constraints have been created for us, others are our own creation. The disciples had an individuality to which they applied the love of Christ. The Supreme Constraint is the love of Christ because other constraints of men have reached their best results when controlled by this Supreme Constraint. All may be summed up in material and spiritual constraints. The love of Christ is spiritual but it operates in the material."

"The Masked Hostess"

by BLAIR STEVENSON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Upon the death of her father, "Happy Jack" Van Slaick, once wealthy sportsman and social leader, Nathalie Van Slaick, young and beautiful, finds herself left a few dollars and an old, abandoned Long Island estate called "The Firs." After being coldly repulsed by her rich aunt, Mrs. Pemberton Swayne, Nathalie in desperation cashes a check for $500 for which there are no funds. Without her knowledge, John Sloan, young lawyer, assigned to her affairs, makes the check good. Fearing that a detective is trailing her, Nathalie leaves a train at Brookville, Long Island. From the president of the local bank, a mercenary Shylock, who holds the mortgage on "The Firs," which he desires because the new state road will enhance its value, Nathalie accepts a strange proposition. It is to act as hostess at "The Firs," which is to be rented to a wealthy South American who wishes to entertain his friends. On the condition that her identity remains hidden by wearing a silken mask, Nathalie meets the handsome foreigner, who turns out to be Capt. Ramon Stefano, supposedly of great wealth and much sought after by the young smart set. He does not know that he has previously met her. Nathalie, with a black transformation and Spanish costume and the mask, is unrecognizable. Sloan, in love with Nathalie, warns her of the danger she will be in due to the romantic nature of herself and Stefano. Neither of them realize that Stefano is without a cent and is being supported in this venture by a mysterious ex-policeman engaged in shady deals. This man, Ferris, had previously trailed Nathalie seeking her estate. He finances Stefano in his strange venture, hoping to draw a visit from Nathalie. The opening of "The Firs" completely remodeled and furnished with a staff of servants, is an outstanding social success. The wealthy Long Island crowd are intrigued by the Masked Hostess. Most of them are her own friends, but Nathalie's disguise is not penetrated.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER XVI.

FIVE in the morning had come before the fun began to dwindle. Then Stefano, noticing first of anyone—he had been waiting for it—that the ebb of the merry-making was setting in, glanced toward the leader of the gaucho band and the man, with his crew behind him, rose from where he sat and led them out into the grounds and away, the heat and strum of their instruments dying as they were gathered into the silence of the fir trees. "Spoil sport," cried the girl Stefano had retrieved from the regions upstairs. "Quite so," he called back to her, "but come have an egg with me, what?" At once his servants began setting up bridge tables with snowy cloths and heaped plates upon them. Coffee urns were brought in, along with eggs, muffins, lamb kidneys, chops, and racks of toast. And more trays of mixed and compounded drinks for whoever regarded coffee as flat and unprofitable or considered that he or she required a hair of the dog. "Old Ramon does himself well," remarked a sleek haired blonde girl and tossed down a cocktail. "Now this is what I call the real simple life in country wilds. Cocktails for breakfast. All right—want are cocktails for? Say Stefano I'm coming back tonight and have you shake me some more." Stefano got right up in his place and clattered a fork against his plate for attention. "Cocktail idea. And so is everybody. What say henceforward we make it open house? Continuous show like dear old mother earth spinning round? Mark me all of you—from tonight on. I don't even call one of you up. Every night at midnight sharp I'm here and so will be the band. Don't write, don't telegraph, just romp in. The understood!" A storm of acclamation and applause greeted him. More trays of liquids were brought in. A girl beside Nathalie turned to her. "Where—tell me because I want to go there—do you South Americans get your money? Does it just ooze out of the ground in the Argentine or does it rain down on you there during the rainy season?" Nathalie shook her head, not trusting herself to speak. The girl went on: "She's another tragedy. This place is here and it's much worse to own than Monty's because there's a house on it and the taxes are higher because of that. Someone said the other day that she's going to lose it, which convinces me it must be utterly worthless. If there was any value to it anywhere a perfectly mercenary aunt like Mrs. Mrs. Pemberton Swayne, who is positively filthy with money but a born gold-digger nevertheless—would manage to find out about it and get the place away from Nathalie for a song. But she doesn't seem to want it so I guess it's just a mess." Monty, sleeping between drinks, woke up for a fresh one in time to overhear the name of Mrs. Swayne. "Mish'z Shwayne," he toasted her. "Don't you be 'traid of Mish'z Shwayne. I'm behind you." "He means," explained the girl Polly, "that Mrs. Swayne has been trying to marry one of her girls to Stefano and that when she hears about you she'll go insane with rage. She'll come in here some night, too. The moment she nears about you—which she's sure to because everybody'll be talking about you by tomorrow—she'll come charging in. Now, my dear, I'm telling you this because I think you're perfectly heavenly—we all do. Don't even talk to her. Freeze her. High hat her. Let Stefano handle her. He knows how and has so much money that he can do it."

The young man who was in the fourth place at their table—he was a remote cousin of Nathalie's but obviously hadn't a suspicion of who she was—nodded his head in agreement.

"Polly's perfectly right. Lay off her, Senora. She's an ill one to cross. I know. And it's cocksure she'll be in here for they're getting her Westbury place ready for her, was there yesterday afternoon."

Monty, who possessed the enviable gift of passing from inebriety to almost perfect sobriety if granted twenty minutes sleep, came out of his trance state and announced that he was about to have an "eye opener" as dawn was followed by clear daylight and the party began to break up. "I've got to have a clear head," he asserted. "I'm to meet a man at Minola at nine o'clock who wants to talk business with me about some land. He'll have his chisel with him. I'll need to have my head clear like a bell."

"Like a dumbbell. Poor old Monty," laughed Polly as they all rose from their places. "The waiting chauffeurs outside, fortified by the breakfast to which Stefano had had them in, were cheerful and patient as the crowd which had filled the house for six hours came out into the morning and were received into their various cars. A few of the night revellers found the going down the front steps a little difficult and two of the girls, who had resisted all ordinary efforts to awaken them, were carried to their limousines like babes in arms."

Stefano, in a polo overcoat over his dress clothes and still spick and span, left with the others or, to be exact, in a car right behind the last of them and after letting virtually everyone understand clearly that he was going to the club.

His parting with Nathalie was public and perfunctory. "Cheerio—topping old party, wasn't it? Until tonight at the witching hour. Sleep well and thanks no end."

Nathalie went slowly upstairs and into her suite, guarded by her steel door. She thought of John Sloan as she looked out at the first crowding to within a foot of her window. She told herself she would write him after she had slept. But as her head touched her pillow it was the image of Stefano, handsome and debonair in his inimitable raiment, which rose before her as she drifted off to sleep.

Yet it was Sloan that Nathalie thought at once when she awakened late that afternoon. The sighing black green boughs of the fir outside her window reminded her of him irresistibly. Firs, inextricably associated with him in her mind because of his declaration of love for her on that night—only two nights ago—when he and she waited in his car for Stefano in the road outside, would remind her of him always.

The chiming clock of her mantle struck musically and she turned to it and noted the time—a quarter to seven.

CHINESE TROOPS ARE ROUTED; MANY TAKEN

Moscow, Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—Chinese troops have been routed from the Trans-Baikail and Maritime province regions with the loss of 300 officers captured, 8,000 men disarmed and large quantities of rifles and cannon, an official Soviet communique announced.

The communique said the Soviet successes were the first results of a new concerted drive begun Nov. 17 along the entire Manchurian front. It added that continuous aggressiveness of white guards had forced the population of several Russian villages to evacuate and caused the loss of Russian lives and property. The Soviet government was "obliged to take counter-measures," the communique said.

It has not yet been decided whether Wales will be permitted to take tests to qualify him for a pilot's certificate.
